

An Admonition for Liberal American Ladies

I am not a woman. For those that feel that this is important...please stop reading now!

For those with a brain, please continue reading...

I have always disliked dividing America into separate classes, distinct groups or minorities. I've felt that it was wrong and detrimental to our society and disrespected our national value that "we are all Americans".

Nevertheless, this is a particularly common tactic of the Liberal Left who dissect America into black, white, rich, poor, hispanic, Asian, gay, heterosexual, union, non-union, legal, illegal, blue state, red state, pro-choice, pro-life, 1%er, 99%ers, tea party, OWS, etc., etc., ad nauseum and yes... into male or female.

The Left declares that conservatives or Republicans have a "war against women".

Shame on them! And shame on the Liberal American Ladies that believe this crap and demean the true war on women going on around the world. Here's REAL examples of the "War on Women":

Facial disfigurement, bombing victims, female genital mutilation, coupled with the fact that half of the American abortions today are "Little Women". With these atrocities occurring against women worldwide....Liberals are whining that American women have to pay for their own contraceptives!!! Oh, the horror! They decry the recent Supreme Court ruling in the Hobby Lobby case as...

"Not my boss's business"

"a decision of startling breadth"

"decision jeopardizes the health of women who are employed by these companies"

"It's time that five men on the Supreme Court stop deciding what happens to women."

Boo Hoo!... it damn well is your boss's business. He's paying your salary and for your benefits. This is all about who pays.... Not about what is available. Women have lost nothing but a few bucks and still can get anything they want. Nothing has dried up for them other than forcing their boss to pay for something.

This is just simply stupid. And the Hobby Lobby case recognized that people do not leave their religious beliefs and morals at the door before they enter their own businesses and that closely held businesses can take on the morality of their owners and operators. More simply and crudely, it did get a woman's vagina out of her boss's wallet. Contraceptive devices and pharmaceuticals are just as available now as they were before the Supreme Court ruling. Women can buy whatever they want to satisfy their sexual pleasures or women's "health" issues [including abortion] right now. This ruling only said that the government could not force closely-held, for-profit businesses to purchase items that are against their religious beliefs. The lies from liberal Senators [yes, Harry Reid] and liberal media are confounding the problem and not helping American citizens understand the truth about this ruling. Of course, that is their plan and they have no remorse or conscience about it and hope to benefit from the confusion.

Boo Hoo!...Poor Liberal American women feel victimized because they can't get someone else to pay for their contraceptives. How stupid is that! How demeaning it is to women in general.

So, to you juvenile, Liberal, American Women and your cohorts.....Just stop it! Stop the whining over something so trivial. You are an embarrassment, not only to your sex, but to America and the entire human race. Do something significant for your country. Stop your ego-centric, selfish blabbing, money-grubbing, power mongering and outright silliness. The war on women is bigger than your month's supply of birth control pills.

Conservative women know this and know this is not about women... it is about power and control by the Federal Government over our lives. And they and I are against it. I guarantee it.

There, I feel much better.
